This sought-after Kensington Green home gets everything right—comfort, size, style, setting and a layout that lives the way you want. Expansive mountain vistas unfold across Cordillera’s Dave Pelz Signature Short Course, one of only two in the world and sweep over tranquil ponds, enhancing the ambiance of evenings on the patio. Inside, enjoy ideal main level living with the entry, garage, mudroom, kitchen, great room, main deck and primary suite all on one convenient level. The layout includes four true bedrooms, a large lower level family room and a versatile bunk area ideal for kids and guests. The remodeled kitchen features slab granite counters and high-end appliances. Various bathrooms have been thoughtfully updated. Curated perennial and annual gardens bloom spring through fall in the front and back. Lush evergreens line the terraced side yard beside a cascading water feature, near the rebuilt oversized deck designed for lounging and grilling. One of only two in the enclave, the stone entry adds distinction. A new boiler, garage heating system and systems upgrades ensure lasting comfort. The community provides low maintenance living with conveniences like a post office and car wash, ideal for full-time or second-home use. Kensington Green is known for its Cotswold style architecture, walkability and access to miles of scenic private trails, stocked fishing ponds and the Pelz Place Clubhouse, undergoing renovation as a vibrant golf and social hub. Owners enjoy access to Cordillera’s private recreation amenities including pools, fitness, tennis and Nordic trails, plus one point three miles of private Eagle River fly fishing, a rare amenity that brings Colorado’s iconic trout waters to your backyard. Optional Cordillera memberships add three more championship courses and access to the Vail Gondola Club in Vail Village. Just minutes from Edwards and Beaver Creek, this home offers a rare opportunity in one of the Vail Valley’s most storybook enclaves.
